CROWN & CURIOSITY

W.A. PICKARD

Autumn Currants

Hand-painted porcelain · Signed Jery Vokral · Four pieces

On a November table, a little painted fruit can do the work of a centerpiece: currants and autumn leaves, held in gold and porcelain, ready for tea or a late breakfast.

These four pieces were decorated by W.A. Pickard in the pattern “Autumn Currants,” and signed by the artist Jery Vokral. Their porcelain blanks are Thomas of Germany, for the sugar and creamer; Haviland of France, for the plate; and T&V Limoges, for the cup.

They might have been set out for an autumn breakfast, or for afternoon tea when the days were shortening and the gold rims caught the last of the light.

A small harvest, signed by the hand that painted it — a season kept, and now yours to preserve.

~ A curiosity, chosen for you ~

CROWNANDCURIOSITY.COM